WONDERS ASUNDER

QUEEN'S COLLEGE SCHOOL SONG

Music by Edward Ernest BOWEN and John FARMER (1872)
(Adopted from British Harrow School Song)
Lyrics by William Kay (1920)

2. From the proud city and from the lone valley,
From the rich districts of Kwang-Tung we come.
Hakka and Cantonese round thee we rally,
Far from our kindred in thee we find home.
Sternly we strive in our sports and our studies,
For the race goes to the wise and the strong,
Moulding our manhood, our mind and our bodies,
QCs and O QCs join in the song.

3. Time speeds along. Soon our schooldays are ended.
Comes the sad hour when from thee we must part!
Thee who so kindly and skillfully blended
Lore of the Orient with Western art.
We will not falter nor fearfully wonder,
Nutured by thee we feel valiant and strong.
Sons of Cathay, raise your voice in thunder,
QCs and O QCs join in the song.

PROLOGUE

We are good at using our most familiar lyrics to remind us values we share, and cannot find a better line apart from "Wonders Asunder" to tell our story tonight.

You may be surprised that, unlike previous anniversaries, the school has no particular theme for the 155th anniversary, not even a slogan-writing contest. While doing the job, we are mindful of the successes and setbacks in the last five years since we celebrated our foundation for one and a half century.

As servants of this beloved campus, we are fortunate to have every opportunity to observe, critique and directly participate in businesses surrounding our boys every day. With this usual number 155 amid unusual hiccups in recent years, it is high time to reinforce the beliefs of the Queen's community.

In the last 21 months preparing for this mega reunion, we were looking for inspiring albeit atypical boys of Queen's College demonstrating the genuine wonders of QC. No one can always be the champion, but what happens between entrances and exits is more rewarding and meaningful.

We are happy to introduce some Queen's wonders scattered in various circles to refresh our magnificent memories this evening to redefine the once forgotten virtues of this distinguished institution. With strong self-determination and hard work, all QCs and Old QCs remain leaders of today and tomorrow.

Compassion in difficult times means a lot more than icing on the cake. As our society undergoes widening gap between the "haves" and the "have-nots", our mission to assist juniors in dire need is key to upholding the new alumni obligation when we soon step into the centenary of our service to the alma mater.

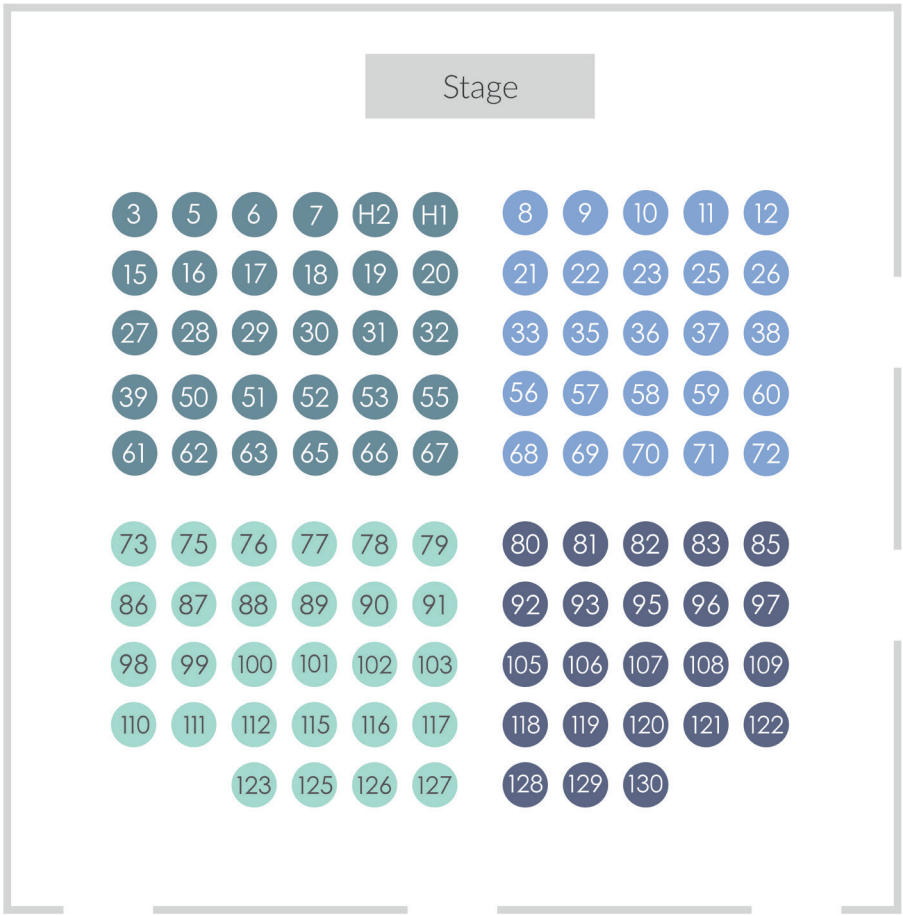

Occasional bad news of green family members failing to live up to increasing expectations across the Queen's community and the territory (including the press) break our hearts. We however appeal to boys of Queen's College and friends from afar to join our journey in preserving QC heritage and building a liberal, caring and right campus.

All thy collegians, it's time to serve. We look forward to more and more wonders anear and asunder to assure the land we stand remains where we dream and where dreams come true.

HOUSE NOTES

Old friends near and far

Like the 150th Anniversary Gala Dinner five years ago, there is no so-called Guest of Honour this evening. All thy collegians comprise the long life of Queen's College, all with ongoing efforts and unwavering contributions to the alma mater from every arena.

Old friends attending tonight are the Honorary President, Advisers and Auditor of QCOBA and former Principals. They are long-time servants to honour for their sustained and sturdy support to boys of Queen's College across generations.

Prof Joseph SUNG Jao-yiu

Appointed in July 2015, Prof Joseph SUNG from Class of 1976 has been the Honorary President of QCOBA and a devout advocate of the Queen's fraternity. With his exceptionally good and valuable contributions to QC and QCOBA, Prof SUNG is a role model to inspire the young generation by dedicated services to both the city and the Queen's community.

His Opening Address tonight should remind and enlighten fellow brothers the essence to serve and the soul of visionary leadership.

Mr Kenny CHENG Kin-yat

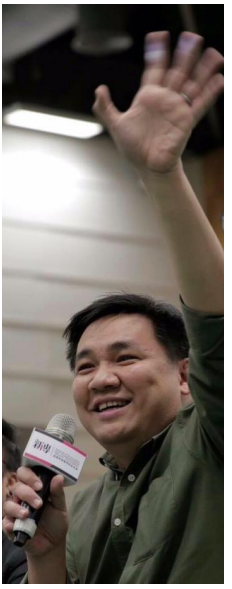

As the Convenor for Gala Dinner, Kenny has been coordinating departments and parties concerned based on his seasoned service in QCOBA. From Class of 1999, he has been the Vice President for Student Affairs since 2013, and also the Trustee of John Stokes Memorial Fund and QCOBA Representative in Four-Party Organising Committee of QC 155th Anniversary.

For the special theme "Wonders Asunder" embodied with seemingly paradoxical ideas, Kenny will tell you why in his welcoming remarks.

Masters of Ceremony

The Organising Committee is excited to have an interesting team of MCs comprising eloquent speakers across professions. Mr CHAN Yiu-wah (1975) has been serving QCOBA as a highly skilful and experienced MC in many alumni dinners and reunions in the last two decades. We are most honoured to have him to do the top job again after happy retirement from the Assistant Director of Broadcasting.

Dr CHENG Chi-man (1982) is the Council Member of Hong Kong Medical Association and an active columnist and facebook live host on family medicine. Mr Clement LEE Hing-nin (1986) is the Chief Magistrate of the Judiciary and we will be fortunate to have his jokes beyond serious judgements tonight. Mr Julian LAW Wing-chung (1995) founded Jervois One as consultancy after the election campaign and shares our theme in exploring the next Queen's identity.

Wonders' Neighbours

In the first video to tie in with the theme "Wonders Asunder", the creative team deliberately picked angles off QCs and Old QCs. Two ladies Mrs Pansy Chan (whose father, husband and son are all QC boys) and her mother Mrs Stella Ho were invited to tell their family stories around the trio.

In addition, retired Laboratory Technician Mr WONG Hing-kwok gave an extensive account of the Queen's character he observed in the last three decades, while Mr CHOW Chun-choi was grateful for QC boys' support to his Woon Lam Noodle stall from Moreton Terrace moving into the neighbouring Shelter Street.

Scattered Asunder

The other video is indeed an alternative collection of QC characters – not so good grades, naughty jokes, Plastic Football fanatic etc, but sharing the same devoted heart and self-determination. Mr James LING started two craft beer bars TAP in Mong Kok and Second Draft in our neighbouring Tai Hang.

Mr Herman CHAN and Mr Nivey TSANG founded a social enterprise Eldpathy working with welfare organisations in promoting elderly care and family harmony. The KOL (key opinion leader) Lam Sailong on trial shares wonders he met during frequent travels beyond his flight attendant career.

UV Taiko Performance

The Organising Committee will pay tribute to past and present staff by giving over 1 200 participants this evening a brand new audio and visual experience of a Japanese drum show under exciting and dazzling lighting. The team comprising eight Old Boys from Class of 1976 to 2004 and two Secondary Five boys is a vivid example of fraternal team work.

Despite short albeit intensive training provided by Ban's Gig Drums, the Queen's drummers live up to the school motto, hard work conquers all.

Tai Chi Sword Performance

Budding juniors never let us down and their achievements fill a spectrum of arts, sciences and sports. From Secondary Five, LEUNG Yat-sing is truly an outstanding student and sportsman who grabbed consecutive Gold Medals from World and Asian Junior Wushu Championships.

His recent Bronze Medal for Team Hong Kong, China in the national Student Sports Games added recognition to his perseverance amid fierce competition among athletes across the country. The Tai Chi Sword performance tonight will combine sheer tenacity and fine philosophy in honouring our beloved college.

Queen's College School Orchestra

As the largest music team, the 60-man-strong Queen's College School Orchestra has been QCs and Old QCs' best accompaniment in the last two decades, with melodies hitting the many hearts on and off campus as well as winning awards from the professional circle.

The Queen's musicians will play this evening the upbeat and cheerful symphony "Memories of Friendship" by Japanese composer Satoshi YAGISAWA. With energetic delivery from members across the Orchestra, our juniors wish to share their joy of this brotherly reunion recalling the cherishing, tender and strong memories among friends for a lifetime.

Queen's College A Cappella Team

QC boys impressively excelled in the novel singing without accompaniment in recent years. The A Capella Team will show their love to music with Cantopop singer Hins CHEUNG's "Soul Love Song" (騷 靈 情 歌) which should perfectly demonstrate their skilful presentation on this wonderful stage.

Stanley Ho Astronomical Observatory (QCOBA)

QCOBA and Old Boys of Astronomers' Club cannot wait to drive you to the moon and stars as observed from telescopes of the Astronomical Observatory generously supported by the QCOBA Honorary Permanent President Dr Stanley HO Hung-sun.

With an open roof and telescopes movable under remote control, these powerful tools enable the Queen's astronomers to continue to enjoy the sky with no light pollution. The observatory will be due to open in 2018.

Long Service Award Presentation

The school will take the opportunity to present Long Service Awards to teachers who are veteran servants with 10 or 20 years of service in QC. They are:

Auction - Queen's Tourbillon

While we travel and adventure, cheers and tears, love and loss are common encounters in various stages of life. We have been curious about the world beyond campus as our career and destiny bring us beyond graduation, but we all know when to be back.

The Queen's Tourbillon dedicated for the Gala Dinner provides GMT indicator showing two regions' time. Wherever you are, you know the time to be home. Assembled by over hundred pieces of tiny, exclusive and rare components, it represents the Queen's wonders believing in hard work and the many happy returns. Don't miss it for its high value in prestigious collection.
